

Festino

nella sera del Giovedi grasso avanti Cena

(Pre-prandial entertainment on the eve of Carnival Thursday) by

Adriano Banchieri (1568-1634)

Adriano Banchieri

He was a man of many gifts. He was not only a brilliant organist, dramatist and theorist (who wrote several well-regarded musical treatises), he was also one of the most radical composers of his day. Born in Bologna in 1568 he studied under Giosseffo Guami, one of the leading members of the musical establishment at St Mark's, Venice. When he was 19, Banchieri took the name, Adriano, when he entered the Olivetan monastic order. He was then moved around the various houses of his order, serving as organist at Luca, Siena, Bosco, Imola, Gubbio, Venice, Verona, finally returning, at the age of 41, to the church of S. Michele at Bosco.

After this tour of duty, it was in Bosco that he invited musical and scholarly friends of his to join the Accademia dei Floridi which he founded as a lively—and no doubt bibulous!—discussion and performing group. Each member had to assume a pseudonym and, as befitting his own inimitable personality, Banchieri's chose the name, Il dissonante. This was in 1615 and the Accademia became famous over the coming years, being able to invite eminent musicians and composers to their entertainments, such as Monteverdi and Girolamo Giacobi, a famous maestro di cappella at the important musical centre of S. Petronio in Bologna. Although Festino was written and composed in 1608 before the Accademia dei Floridi was founded, it was undoubtedly performed there many times, as also when the Academy was renamed as the Accademia dei Filomusic in 1622.

When he was 50, Banchieri was given the honorary title of Abbot within his order and, in 1634, he retired to Bologna. He died in the

Paraphrase of the Prologue given by Banchieri (in the guise of Modern Pleasure—Diletto Moderno) to the guests of the Festino

On my way here, I was accosted by an old man with a mouse-eaten beard, wearing a hat suitable for boiling vegetables in and swathed in a schoolmaster's gown with a great bundle of old parchment strapped to his back. He was called Ancient Rigour (Rigore Antico). He said to me: "I must prevent your entertainment, Modern Pleasure, because your new music is breaking all the proper rules of composition."

I replied by saying that I did not want to follow his antiquated rules and that we needed to have fresh ideas these days. I said: "Ninety out of every hundred intelligent people want new fashions—in art, poetry and music. We don't want to go around looking like you or thinking in old-fashioned ways. If I were you, I would sell your old papers to the grocer. They would make excellent pickle for fish."

He was starting to give me some impertinent answers when I interrupted him with a fusillade of black notes to the words: "Oh, what a no-no-no-no-nose!" (At this point in his Prologue, Banchieri actually inserted a little three-part canon on these words—see below.) "Then I ran upstairs and here I am, gentlemen, to give you what I

The musical notation consists of three staves of music in common time (indicated by 'C') and treble clef. The first staff begins with a sixteenth note followed by eighth notes. The second staff begins with eighth notes. The third staff begins with eighth notes. The lyrics are: "Oh what a no-no-no-no-nose, oh what a nose!" The music is a three-part canon where each part enters one beat apart from the previous one.

—Refrain

—Maid
A young man said to me yesterday: Why don't I have such a little creature in my bed?

—Refrain

IV. The sequel to the masquerade

The girls are all of one mind in this—that you should welcome Cupid into your heart

He who is looking for the greatest pleasure
should follow Cupid and serve him well!
Those who want only pleasure
must know that Cupid cannot find a place;
If his heart doesn't love
then he can't taste the ultimate, if his heart doesn't love.

V. Madrigale a un dolce usignolo

Cantano al lor partir le villanelle un madrigal, tutte vezzose e belle Dolcissimo usignolo, tu sovra i verdi rami

tutta la notte la tua amica chiami, e con soavi accenti
fai dolci i tuoi lamenti.

Io, tra i più folti, orrori di miei pensier, sospiro la mia Cloris, da cui lungi mi vivo,
d'ogni piacer,
d'ogni dolcezza privo!

VI. Mascherata d'Amanti

Entrano sul Festin tutti d'accordo, They all arrive at the con un liuto in tuon dell'arpicordo entertainment with a lute that sounds like a spinet

Tronc tronc tronc tronc
di run din din din
Troc troc to ron tron ton
di ri den den den

VII. Gli Amanti moreshano

Cessano gli stromenti e con diletto, morescano lo Spagnoletto.

Quivi siamo per dar diletto, morescendo lo Spagnoletto.
Tutti giovani innamorati, sù la gamba, lesti e garbat! Fatti in su, fatti in giù;
ben trovati, cu cu ru cù!

Viva Amore con l'arco e strali,
il turcasso la corda e l'ali!
Vival Venere in compagnia,
e chi segue sua monarchia!
Fatti in là,
fatti in qua,
bona sera fa la la la!

VIII. Gl'Amanti cantano un madrigale

Finita la moresca, per riposo, cantano un madrigale artificioso

Ardo sì, ma non t'amo, perfida e dispietata,
indegnamente amata
da sì fedele amante,
che del mio amor ti vante.

Più non sarà che del mio amor ti vante, poichè libero ho il core;
e se ardo, di sdegno e non d'amore,

V. Madrigal to a sweet nightingale

As they leave, the pretty and charming peasant girls sing a madrigal

Sweetest nightingale,
on the green boughs
calling to your mistress all night,
and with gentle trills
make your sweet lament.

In my thoughts I'm pining more,
sighing for my Chloris,
from whom I live so far,
of every pleasure distant, and every sweetness bereft.

VI. Lovers' masquerade

Quiivi udrassi contar della gazzuola una ridiculosa e industre fola..

Tronc tronc tronc tronc
di run din din din
Troc troc to ron tron ton
di ri den den den

VII. The lovers' Morris Dance

The instruments stop playing and the lovers dance a Morris vigorously while, singing the Spagnoletto.

We aim to give pleasure,
dancing the Spagnoletto.
All you young lovers,
kick your legs high and gracefully!
Kick upwards,
Kick downwards,
well met, cu cu ru cu!

Long live Cupid with his bow and arrows, quiver, bowstring and wings!
Long live Venus with him, and those who defer to them!
There now,
Here now,
Good evening, fa la la la!

VIII. The lovers sing a madrigal

Resting after the Morris Dance, they sing a finely wrought madrigal

I yearn, yes, but I'm not in love,
false and pitiless girl, You're unworthy to be loved by so faithful a lover
since we boast of my love.

You can't boast of my love any longer because my heart is free;
and if I burn, it's for disdain and not for love,
and if I burn, it's for disdain and not

IX. Gli amanti cantano una canzonetta

O quanto piague il madrigale in fine! Cantano alquante note peregrine.

—Bella Olimpia, mi parto,
e il core costantissimo ti resta:
a rivederci, vita di mia vita, troppo mi sa crudel la mia partita!
—Pur ti parti e mi lasci, ingrato e crudelissimo Bireno;
ed io qui resto in questo lido sola:
chi mi dà aiuto, ohimè, chi mi consola?

X. La zia Bernadina racconta una Novella

Quivi udrassi contar della gazzuola una ridiculosa e industre fola..

—Non avendo per or trattenimento, per fare onore a compagnia sì bella,
zia Bernardina, dite una novella.

—Dirolla senza farmi strapregare:
però silenzio e stâtemi ascoltare!

—Sì! Sì! Silenzio!
—Tacete! Tacete!
—Olà tacete!

—Dice che fu una volta una fornara che aveva una gazzuola . . .

—E si! Seguitate!
—Oh che gusto!

—E sì questa gazzuola
aveva così ben rotto il filello . . .

—Bon!
—Toh!
—E sì?
—Ben!

—Che ragionava come fa un puttello

—E si?!

—E ben?

—Che diceva?

—Che parlava?

—Diceva: brutta porca! bruttaputta!
fa la torta, fa la zuppa,
fa la torta, fa la zuppa,
qua qua qua . . .

—Ih! ih! ih!
—Oh! Oh! Oh!
—Ah! Ah! Ah!
—Moh chi non rideria?
—E ben?
—E si?
—Che successe?
—Seguitate!

—Successe che mangiando un dì le zuppe,
cadde in terra la gabbia e sì si ruppe!

IX. The lovers sing a canzonet

O how the madrigal pleased—so they now sing a valedictory piece.

—Beautiful Olympia, I leave,
but my constant love stays with you:
farewell, life of my life,
the parting is so cruel to me!
—Yet you are going to leave me,
ungrateful, cruel Bireno:
so I have to stay alone on the shore:
who will help me, Alas! who will console me?

X. Aunt Bernadina tells a tale

Now we hear about the magpie—an amusing but serious tale.

—We have no entertainment now to honour such distinguished company so, aunt Bernardina, tell us a story.

—I'll tell you one straightaway:
be quiet and listen to me!

—Yes! yes! Silence!
—Quiet! Quiet!
—Listen, be quiet!

—They say that a baker-woman once had a little magpie . . .

—Yes! Go on!
—How delightful!

—And this little magpie could talk so well . . .

—Good!
—Ah!
—And then?
—Well!

—that he could speak like a little child

—And then?
—Well!
—What did he say?
—What were his words?

—He said: Dirty pig! Dirty pig!
Make the tart, make the soup,
Make the tart, make the soup,
qua qua qua . . .

—Hi! Hi! Hi!
—Ho! Ho! Ho!
—Ha! Ha! Ha!
—Who wouldn't laugh at this?
—Well?
—And then?
—What happened?
—Carry on!

—One day, when the magpie was eating the soup,
his cage fell to the ground and broke!

—Che fu della gazzuola?
 —Uno stronzo vi sia in gola!
 —O buono in vero: ve l'ha cuccata!
 —Mo stiamo attenti a questa capricciata.

XI. Capricciata a tre voci

Qui s'ode una spassevoci barzelletta di certi cervellini usciti in fretta.

—Nobil spettatori, udrete or ora
 quattro belli umori:
 un cane un gatto un cuoco un chiù, per spasso,
 far contrappunto a mente sopra un
 basso.

XII. Contrappunto bestiale alla mente

Un cane, un cuoco, un gatto e un chiù per spasso far contrappunto a mente sopra un basso.

Chiù: —Fa la la la
 Cucco: —Fa la la la
 Gatto: —Fa la la la
 Cane: —Fa la la la

Cucco: —Cucù cucù
 Chiù: —Chiù chiù
 Gatto: —Miau miau
 Cane: —Babau babau
 Base: —Nulla fides gobbis;
 similiter est zoppis.
 Si squerzus bous est,
 super annalia scribe.

XIII. Gli cervellini cantano un
 madrigale

*O che bestial capriccio naturale!
 Mò stiamo attenti a un serio
 madrigale.*

Furon sin qui l'aurate e belle chiome, duri lacci e catene a questo core,
 che sotto bianco velo,
 in mille nodi avvolte,
 stavano in sè raccolte.
 Or son quadrella d'oro,
 che in quel grande arco erette,
 vengon quasi saette
 per saettarmi il core;
 contal dolcezza ch'io
 godo, nel loro ferir, del languir mio.

XIV. Intermedio di venditori gli fusi

Al partir delle bestie gionse al pari un intermedio lesto di fusari.

—Chi vuol filare?
 Belle donne, comprate fusi,
 chè le rocche son bon mercato!
 —Chi vuol filare, o donne eccovi il fuso
 di querza bianca, d'scero e castagno;

—What happened to the magpie?
 —Stuff your question!
 —Ha!, Bernadina has fooled you!
 —Let's now listen to this caprice.

XI. Caprice for three voices

Now we hear some amusing banter from some half-wits who then depart in haste

—Noble audience, now you will hear four fine fellows:
 a dog, a cat, a cuckoo, and an owl for
 fun,
 make up an amusing counterpoint on a bass.

XII. The animals sing in counterpoint

*A dog, a cuckoo, a cat and an owl have fun improvising counterpoint on a mock liturgical cantus firmus
 bass.*

Owl: —Fa la la la
 Cuckoo: —Fa la la la
 Cat: —Fa la la la
 Dog: —Fa la la la

Cuckoo: —Cuckoo, cuckoo
 Owl: —Toowit, toowoo
 Cat: —Miaow miaow
 Dog: —Woof woof
 Base: —Never trust hunchbacks;
 nor those who limp.
 If a braggart is good,
 record it in the history books.

XIII. The hare-brains sing a madrigal

Oh, that was a silly animals' song, let's now hear a serious one.

Your lovely golden hair was bound tightly round his heart and under white cloth
 a thousand knots were tied and ravelled together.
 Now they are in a golden frame
 fixed in a large arc,
 and have become arrows
 that pierce my heart;
 with such poignancy that I rejoice in the wound that I suffer.

XIV. Intermezzo by the spindle-sellers

Now the animals have left here come the spindle-sellers with a light-hearted interlude

—Who wants to spin?
 Buy our spindles, lovely ladies
 for distaffs are cheap!
 —Who wants to spin? Here's a spindle of white oak, or maple, or chesnut:

—N'avrete quattro al soldo: o grande abuso!
 —Donne, comprate fusi,
 chè le rocche son bon mercato!
 —Belle donne, comprate fusi!
 —Fusi sodi, bianchi, nè son storti!
 —Sappiate, certo, non si fa guadagno;
 girate dritto, acciò vostri consorti non dichino facciate fusi storti!

XV. Li fusari cantano un
 madrigale

Partono li Fusari, e al lor partire, cantano un madrigal grato a sentire.

Felice chi vi mira,
 ma più felice è chi per voi sospira.
 Felicissimo poi chi, sospirando,
 chi, sospirando, fa sospirar voi.
 O bene amica amica stella,
 chi, per donna sì bella,
 può far contento in un l'occhio e 'l desio,
 e sicuro può dir: quel cor è mio!

XVI. Gioco del Conte

*Propone un bel bisticcio il dolce
 umore;
 poi lascia star sonando le tre ore.*

—Per seguir lo spasso in questo loco, belle signore, su, facciamo un ioco.
 —Tutte concordemente unite siamo:
 voi principiate e noi vi sequitiamo.
 —Su su facciamne un bello,
 per chi starà in cervello.
 —Che gioco sarà questio?
 Spediteci su, presto!
 —Quattri versi dirò speditamente:
 voi replicate asenza intoppar niente.
 —Dite su, che siam leste per rispondervi, e preste.

—"Sopra il ponte a fronte del fonte
 vi stava un conte:
 cadde il ponte nel fonte e il conte
 siruppe il fronte".

—Sete troppo vivace!
 Più adagio se vi piace,

—"Sopra il ponte a fronte del fonte
 vi stava un conte:
 cadde il ponte nel fonte e il conte
 siruppe il fronte".

—"Sopra il ponte a fronte del conte
 vi stava un ponte . . ."
 —Non sete in segno.
 ponete un pegno.
 —"Sopra il fonte a ponte conte . . ."
 —Ponete un pegno.
 (Campana) — Don
 —E una . . .
 (Campana) — Don
 —E due . . .
 (Campana) — Don
 —E tre . . .
 —Tre ore sono a fè!

—Four spindles a soldo; a great bargain!

—Ladies, buy our spindles,
 for distaffs are cheap!
 —Ladies, buy our spindles,
 —White spindles, true, not warped!
 —We can't make profits at these prices;
 turn them around in your fingers, so your husbands will know you haven't twisted them!

XV. The spindle-sellers sing a madrigal

The spindle-seller leave and as they do so they sing a pleasing song.

Happy is he who beholds you but happier is he who yearns for you.
 The happiest by far, is, by sighing,
 is able to make you sigh!
 Oh, friendly star,
 which, by means of a lovely lady,
 can delight the eyes and wake desire,
 so he can say: her heart is mine!

XVI. The Count's game

A sporting fellow proposes a tongue-twister word-game but calls it off when the bell tolls for three o'clock.

—To continue the fun, ladies, let's try a tongue-twister.

—We agree:
 you start and we'll follow.
 —Here's a good one, let's see who can do it..
 —What game is this?
 Hurry, tell us quickly!
 —I'll say four verses quickly:
 you repeat them without a stumble.
 —Say them then, we're ready to repeat them quickly.

—"On the pontoon by the fountain
 stood a count:
 the pontoon fell into the fountain and
 the count broke his brow".

—You're going too fast!
 Say it slower, please!

—"On the pontoon by the fountain
 stood a count:
 the pontoon fell into the fountain and
 the count broke his brow".

—"On the pontoon on the count's brow stood a pontoon . . ."
 —You're wrong.
 you must pay a forfeit.
 —"On the fountain pontoon count . . ."
 —Give me a forfeit.
 (Bell) — Dong
 —That's one o'clock . . .
 (Bell) — Dong
 —That's two o'clock . . .
 (Bell) — Dong
 —That's three o'clock . . .
 —It's struck three!

XVII. Gli Festinanti

*Con voce assai brillante ed asinina
si sente una bell'aria alla norcina.*

O o o

Canto, Falsetto, Alto, Tenor e Basso, col cantinier bevendo, hanno un bel spasso.

—Brindesi:
al Basso, Canto ed Alto, col Falsetto.
—Che vino è questo, messer Covello?
—Questo da noi vien detto vin chiarello.
—Chiarello, buon chiarello,
io to chiarisco mò: faccio ragione.
(Quivi egli [il Canto] beve, nè canta ecco, ti trinco mò: faccio ragione.

XVII. The revellers

With a sharp brilliance of tone—like the braying of a donkey—we are treated to a lovely song in the style of a butcher

O o o

Since we have no more masquerades, let us go in to dinner.

toasts and deep thoughts

In a wine-tasting session, the Cantus, Falsetto, Alto, Tenor and Bass drink with the cellarer and have fun..

—A toast:
to the Bass, Cantus, Alto and Falsetto.
—What wine is this Master Cellarer?
—This is a wine from round here that we call claret.
—Claret, wonderful claret,
I drink it down: I'm thinking hard.
(He [the Cantus] drinks and does not sing until after the applause.)
—Your good health! Your good health!

—A toast:
to the Bass, Falsetto and Contralto.
—What wine is this Master Cellarer?
—This is a wine from round here that we call versiero.
—Versiero, wonderful versiero,
I'll sort it out: I'm thinking hard.
(He [the Falsetto] drinks and does not sing until after the applause.)
—Your good health! Your good health!

—A toast:
to Bass and Contralto, merry friends.
—What wine is this my friend?
—This is a drink that we call toasting wine.
—Toasting wine, good toasting wine,
I drink a toast: I'm thinking hard.
(She [the Contralto] drinks and does not sing until after the applause.)

—Brindesi:

al Basso galantuom e buon compagno.
—Che vino è questo, messer cotale?
—Questo da noi vien detto vin codriale.
—O dolce codriale,
entrarmi in corpo mò,
—Brindesi!
Brindesi a tutta la compagnia!
(Quivi egli [il Basso] beve mentre pausa.
Applauso).

Gran mercè, cantiniero, gran mercè,

felice siate!
Voglio finire
tornado a dire:
Giovani amanti
lesti e galanti;
innamorate,
con lor tornate!
chi brama avere
novo piacer,
di nuovo invito
al fior gradito!
Vi parlo tosco:
a cena nosco
non v'invitiamo,
chè troppi siamo.

—A toast:

to gentleman Bass and good friends.
—What wine is this, Master Thingy?
—This is what we call codriale.
—O sweet codriale,
come to me now,
—Toasts!
Toasts to the whole company!
(Here the Bass drinks during a pause.
Applauso).

—What do you think of this wine?

—In truth, it's excellent,
It's excellent, cellarer.
Thanks to you, cellarer, thanks:
In truth, it's excellent!
In truth, it's excellent!

XIX. Fooling about (but great fun!)

*O what brainless buffoons:
What a time to sell matches?*

—Old clothes! Old clothes!
—Old clothes and shoes!
—Matches!
—Matches, ladies!
Matches, ladies!
—Matches, Matches, Matches, ladies!
—We change
old shoes,
broken glass,
dregs from the barrel,
for onions and garlic,
bread and cheese!
And if anyone wants to pay money,
we sell them for three for a cent!
